Stadsdelsförvaltningen (public social service) Rinkeby/Kista, Stockholm The canteen

An aesthetic and relaxing interior design

The canteen at Stadsdelsförvaltningen (public social service) Rinkeby / Kista in Stockholm has got a new look with Kurage curtains and acoustic elements. Interior designer Annette Sahlin, Top Floor Inredningsarkitekter (Interior Architects), has created the new design:

"The staff of public social services has an often stressed working day with many tasks. Therefore, my main idea was to promote the psychosocial work environment by creating an aesthetically pleasing decor inspired by nature. The canteen should have a calm and relaxing atmosphere."

"The floor with a mixture of gray and wine reddish should be preserved, so I have worked on these colours, supplemented with pink and tables made of ash tree."

"I have always been very fond of Danish design, which has a special, luxurious and appealing touch. Personally, I also like Kurage' products with their inspiration from nature and calm colours. Kurage' products matched my design idea, and it was crucial for my choice of textiles and acoustic elements for the project."

"I especially like the curtains, which looks great both day and night. The wall panels are chosen both for their aesthetic and sound absorbing value. Previously, there was a fairly poor acoustic in the canteen. The wall panels have significantly reduced the noise level. "

"Finally, I have a very good cooperation with Kurage' sales consultant, who has a lot of knowledge and is fast and reliable. As a customer, I always feel that I am center of attention."
